

What kind of microfiber is needed to erase a red highlighter pen

Overview

Blot with a clean microfiber cloth, then rinse with a little water and blot again to lift the cleaner and loosened ink. For stubborn marks on fabric, wash the item according to its care label; air-dry to verify stain removal before using heat. For most highlighter stains, start with a gentle cleaner like a melamine sponge highlighter stain remover or a isopropyl alcohol highlighter ink stain remover. Follow product directions for contact time, usually a few minutes. Do not rub, as rubbing can embed ink deeper. Highlighters are a staple in offices, schools, and homes. Their bright neon colors make text stand out, but accidentally marking your clothes or upholstery can be a real. This makes it easier for soap and water to remove highlighter stains from some surfaces, but exactly how much ink comes off depends on the surface and the highlighter ink's formulation.
